Hearing God's Word is risky business

Listening to the Scriptures can be a risky activity. Here we are, sitting in church, just trying to slow down a little bit and collect some good thoughts to help us through the week.

The we hear something like “whoever wishes to be great among you must be your servant” and we start to think there is another way to live. We imagine a world where we really act on our belief that each one of us is treasured by God. Before we know it, we feel uncomfortable about our search to make it to the top, to be the most important, to be well-liked. We even ache about the troubles we have in our own lives. Church has become disturbing. Our ears and our hearts have been opened to hear the challenges, and we struggle to respond.

This reading highlights our responsibility to help spread the message found in those disturbing, uncomfortable words from the Scriptures. We don't have to be experts in evangelization ~ we are called to work with our brothers and sisters to build up the kingdom of God here in this place. We can go back to those Scriptures to tap into the strength that is waiting for us as we “confidently approach the throne of grace to receive mercy and to find grace for timely help”
